

Seventh Grade Summer Reading

Since you are now officially seventh graders, welcome to seventh-grade language arts. We can't wait to meet you and share books and ideas. On the very first day of school, we will make time to share the wonderful books we read over the summer. As you are reading this summer, think about what book you would like to bring to share. You don't need to physically bring the book, but make sure you remember enough information, including genre, title, author, and plot, to share during our class discussion.

Enjoy your break and happy reading!
